EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT AT A WEDDING.—A few nights ago the daughter of a wealthy citizen was united in the bonds of wedlock under rather singular circumstances. The bride's father, like many other men of wealth, was slow in settling his accounts with the butcher, baker, etc. One of his creditors, hearing of the contemplated wedding, sued out an attachment and on the evening when the fair daughter was to be transmogrified into a wife, a constable, accompanied by a double-fisted Irishman, presented himself at the family mansion and announced his intention to levy on the furniture. The young lady's mother begged the officer, with tears in her eyes, to wait until the following day, assuring him that the debt should then be satisfied. It would be very mortifying, she said, to have the wedding interrupted by the removal of the furniture, and might be the means of breaking off the match. The bridegroom was up stairs, and the priest was expected every moment. The officer agreed to suspend the execution of the writ until the next day, on condition that his Irish friend should remain in the house to see that none of the furniture was carried off. The lady agreed to this, and the constable took his departure, leaving the gentleman from Cork behind as an uninvited wedding guest. The priest arrived, and the knot was tied to the satisfaction of all parties, but the guests were curious to know what business the Hibernian had in the room. The lady of the house gave some reason for his presence, and he was tolerated by fashionable company. The Irishman was not as bashful as the majority of his countrymen, and he did not appear at all abashed by the fine clothes and jewels that met his eye on every side, but made himself perfectly at home. He congratulated the happy couple, joked with the lady of the house, and excited a good deal of fun by the drollery of his remarks. When supper was announced, the Irishman walked in with the rest, and took a seat at the table. He ate his share of the good things and drank wine enough to float a small canal boat. As the feast progressed, the Irishman's spirits rose, and he became rather more boisterous than suited the occasion. Some of the guests wanted to have the son of Erin ejected, but the lady of the house positively prohibited such a rude act, and the Irishman was suffered to remain and allowed to have his own way. He made quite free with some of the gentlemen, kissed several of the young ladies, and punched the lady of the house in the ribs with his thumb in a style peculiar to the Celtic race.

When the party broke up, the Irishman made a bed of a sofa in the parlor, and with his boots resting on the rich velvet, snoozed soundly until nine o'clock the next morning, when the constable called and relieved him of his charge. The debt was paid according to promise, and we venture to say that the wealthy citizen will not be caught in such a scrape again.—St. Louis Democrat.

STONEWALL JACKSON'S BARBARITY.—Those who have been so ready to ascribe every heroic quality to Stonewall Jackson, will be somewhat taken-aback by the recent authentic confirmation of a rumor which was prevalent some time since that he once advocated the prosecution of the rebellion under the black flag. His life, which has just been published in London, written by Prof. R. L. Dabney, D. D., of Richmond, informs us, in a very pious strain, that when the crisis of secession appeared, Jackson was one of those who tried to unite "the Christian people," North and South, in an effort to stop the war, and having failed in this, maintained that "it was the true policy of the South to take no prisoners," as "the war was an offense against humanity so monstrous that it outlawed those who skulked its guilt beyond the pale of forbearance." It thus appears that the great "Christian warrior" of the South cherished the notion that the war itself—and not any individual acts complained of—on the part of the North, justified the rebels in treating Northern soldiers as outlaws and subjecting them, whenever it was possible, to a wholesale system of assassination. Such views would seem to lie, from the fervor and idolized character of Stonewall Jackson, the culmination of pro-slavery Christianity. But, in truth, Jackson was a sheer fanatic; as much worse than John Brown as the inspirations of slavery are worse than those of freedom. This, together with his good military education, constituted his efficiency in a limited range of operations, but he was as far from being a great General as he was from being a man of Christian magnanimity.

Hon. Andrew J. Donelson, the candidate for the Vice Presidency on the Fillmore ticket in 1856, has returned from the South to his old home at Nashville, Tennessee, and taken the oath of allegiance.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

No Flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue,
With the Stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 21, 1865.

The Peace Conference.

The New York papers contain the particulars of a mass meeting held in Richmond after the return of the rebel Commissioners, Stephens, Hunter and Campbell, which was addressed by Hunter and other speakers, with the intention of "firing the Southern heart" on the strength of the circumstances connected with the recent interview had by those gentlemen above named with President Lincoln and Secretary Seward. From official sources we learn that Secretary Seward alone went to meet the Commissioners from Richmond; that upon the urgent advice of General Grant the President also went and conferred with them in person.

That conference was merely a friendly and unofficial conversation between the several parties, with the hope of peace as an object in view. The particulars received show that President Lincoln enunciated three points: No armistice would be granted; the Union was to be preserved; the action of Congress with regard to slavery should be the recognized law of the land. The proposal for an armistice, preparatory to peace negotiations, was first argued, and upon the decision of President Lincoln, that no armistice could under any circumstances be granted, the other points are said not to have been at all discussed.

Returning to Richmond so utterly unsuccessful, of course it became necessary to work up the popular mind South, once more to continue the struggle, and at the mass meeting held in the "African Church at Richmond, the most was made of the fact that no concession could be obtained of the National Government. The usual string of patriotic resolutions were passed, declaring that the South was fighting for rightful independence, against Northern attempts at conquest and subjugation. Hunter urged a free surrender of life and property to carry on the cause. Benjamin said that they went to the conference with the idea it would be a signal for the uprising of the Southern people, and he already saw an improvement in public sentiment. He admitted that money and supplies were needed, and that the time had come when the people must give them freely without hope of reward. We are not told if the last proposition fired the Southern heart or was received with immense applause.

It is not probable that the rebel cause derived much strength from the conference in Hampton Roads. There was nothing new enunciated; no new hopes were held out; no just grounds for hope were disappointed. The Southern cause remained where it was, and the President showed no indecision or wavering, while his willingness to receive these unofficial messengers—to converse with them and extend every kindness and friendly greeting to them—was simply an earnest of his hopes for peace, and no lowering of his official dignity. What that conference did effect was the banishing of hope of anything to be effected by negotiations, and the rousing of Southern leaders to attempt one last great effort to achieve success by arms. The war has narrowed down, so that the final conflict cannot be far off.

Spain and Peru.—The late treaty between Spain and Peru stipulates for the restoration of Chincha Islands to Peru, and the payment to Spain of three millions of dollars by that State. The terms of the treaty are humiliating to Peru, and it is received by that State on compulsion, with a Spanish fleet in the harbor of Callao. The President of Peru had but forty-eight hours time given him to adopt the ultimatum tendered by Spain. The Peruvians are very indignant, and ten days after the signing of the treaty they attacked a large party of Spaniards who were ashore on leave, killed one and severely wounded several. These facts may lead to renewed troubles between the two nations.

The 511th day, is the heading to a paragraph in a copy of the Charleston Courier which came to this country by way of a captured blockade runner. The meaning was, that it was the 511th day of the bombardment of that devoted city: but it seems to us that the necessity for keeping a register must have ceased when the Yankees went in, and the Chivs went out. It is a great pity they could not have resignedly gone on counting the days and the shells thrown at them a few years longer.

Surgeon of First Oregon Infantry.—Dr. Carpenter, formerly stationed at Fort Yamhill as Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Army, was yesterday mustered out of service as Assistant Surgeon, and will to-day be mustered in as Surgeon of the First Oregon Infantry. Dr. S. Whittemore, who has served as Assistant Surgeon of the First W. T. Infantry for the past three years, has been mustered in as Assistant Surgeon of the Oregon Infantry and ordered to Fort Steilacoom. Dr. Carpenter will remain at Salem for the present.

A Loyal Virginian in Luck at Last.—Capt. Hopkins, of the United States steamer Saginaw, on the Pacific coast, was at breaking out of war, owner of 60,000 acres of land in the Great Kanawha Valley in his native State, Virginia, but remained in the service and loyal to the Government. Since the rebels have been cleaned out of West Virginia, oil wells have been found on his abandoned estate. Thirty eight wells have been bored with such success that he has been offered one million eight hundred thousand dollars for it. At his request he has been transferred to service at the east, where he can look after his estate.

Deserving of Credit.—A friend says great credit is due Capt. Joseph Stevens, of the sloop Mary A. Clinton, and also to Messrs. Warren and Pike for their efforts to save the persons wrecked on board the bark Industry. They did everything possible to restore to life those on the raft who were drowned before reaching the sloop; but without avail.

Sue Mundy's Fate.—Jerome B. Clarke—more notoriously known as Sue Munday, as, owing to his feminine appearance, he was enabled to pass for a woman in female attire—was lately hanged as a spy by order of a military commission at Louisville, Kentucky. He was very useful to the rebels, from the fact that he assumed female garb and often penetrated our lines successfully, acquiring valuable information.

A Pleasant Route.—A trip up the Willamette is made pleasant from the fact that the Reliance, the regular passenger boat on the upper river, is as comfortable and pleasant as any boat upon our waters. Her officers are quietly attentive, and last not least, Jake, the Steward, understands his part of the programme so well that a good square meal is sure to be ready at dinner and supper. The fact is, one seldom eats a better meal than is sure to be set before him on the Reliance.

San Francisco, March 20.—The jury unanimously acquitted Supervisor Cummings on the charge of bribery, there not being a particle of responsible evidence.

Editorial Correspondence.

Salem, March 18, 1865.

A beautiful burst of sunshine has [illegible] awarded us to-day for the [illegible] storm that has made the world so gloomy for a week past. Looking over the [illegible] hills [illegible] green grass starting up, and speaking with the aid of the early flowers, that [illegible] of spring.

THE CHICAGO PLATFORM.

Salem atmosphere is so suggestive of political strategy, that I cannot resist the temptation to transcribe a rather interesting statement that comes to me, apparently with an authentic force, and that dates back to the times when the Democracy rejoiced and glorified at Chicago. My informant, while lately at the east, found in his landlord, at Lowell, Massachusetts, an ex-delegate to the Chicago Convention. Among other remembrances of that interesting [illegible] he used to dilate upon the excellent qualities of an Oregon Senator, who, he said, was very influential and efficient, though not a member of the Convention. Those who remember that an Oregon Senator announced his preference for McClellan and declared the platform of that Convention [illegible] if not in very words, will be amused to hear that the Lowell delegate also spoke of the valuable suggestions made by him to the Committee that framed the platform, and that committee did [illegible] about framing the planks, which were very proper, as the gentleman was [illegible] a good mechanic.

STATE FINANCES.

At present there appears to be an abundance of funds in the State Treasury, though there are many demands coming up to it during the next six months. If all the counties pay their dues to the State, there will be about enough of funds to meet the demands, but some of the counties having gone out to stand on the greenback question, may leave the Treasury with a low ebb longer, until the fall collections come in. I will name a few of the extra expenses of the present fiscal year: The receipts have so far been $79,000, out of which has been paid the expenses of the Legislature and public printing, amounting to $2[illegible]; the purchase of lands for the State Penitentiary and Insane Asylum, [illegible] quite $10,000 more, and there was something of a debt [illegible] besides. The State finances are in a healthy condition enough—even if the treasury is to run short the last quarter of the present year. The revenue of the coming year will amply answer for all the demands, and no doubt, leave, at the end of Gov. Gibbs' term of office, as much money on hand as was found in the Treasury at the exit of the Democratic officers.

A NEW WOOLEN FACTORY.

I learn that the old mills on the Rickreall in Polk county, not far from Dallas, and formerly known as Nesmith's Mills, are being rebuilt, or changed for a new woolen factory. Polk county seems to be as enterprising as is the rest of the world, and judging from appearances, our woolen factories will soon make cloth for all home consumption, and considerable for export. The Polk county mills intend at first to manufacture yarns and flannel, and extend their operations afterwards.

THEATRICALS.

The Salem people have been very appreciative of the Irwins and the troupe that accompanied them. Griswold's Theatre is a very comfortable place to attend, and really the folks here have little to complain of when such an excellent little troupe of actors makes them a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin are very much liked. Mrs. Getzler is quite a favorite, and George Pauly is mirth provoking in the extreme. In fact all the company are deserving of favorable mention.

THE CHRISTIAN COMMISSION.

The ladies of Salem have interested themselves very effectually for the Christian Commission during the last three months, and I am told their efforts have secured about $1,600 in legal tenders for that excellent cause. About half of that sum has been remitted, and the remainder is on hand. They have adopted the plan of making monthly visitings and collections, and find that the general contribution of a trifle from all once a month, makes quite a handsome amount at the end of a quarter.

AN OLD OREGONIAN HEARD FROM.

T. T. Eyre is well known in Oregon, and I am told by Mr. Rector that he was lately heard of somewhere in the Mexican province of Durango, where he went to superintend a tin mine for a California company. Eyre however found out that the great bulk of the mine was outside of the company's possessions, so he negotiated for the purchase of the tract of land adjoining in his own name at a low figure, which he accomplished on account of the present unsettled state of affairs in Mexico. After getting the owner [illegible] up handsomely and legally to give him a title upon payment in March, he went to California, offered half to any company who would pay for purchase price, found customers, and now owns half of what promises to be an immense thing. The tin exists in placer form, and the metal found is almost the pure thing.

From the Upper Country.—The Walla Walla Statesman of March 10th says:

A party arrived in town from the Kootenai mines this week. They left Fisherville on the 1st February, and say that prospectors were returning there from the upper Columbia, reporting that the Columbia diggings were a humbug. This party confirm the former reports in regard to the [illegible] diggings at Kootenai.

The pack trains that started to the Kootenai mines a week or two ago from this city, have been compelled to lay by on the Touchet and Snake rivers, on account of [illegible] and stormy weather.

Hon. C. D. Smith took the oath and entered upon the duties of his office as Secretary and acting Governor of Idaho, at Lewiston, on the 4th instant. The seal and archives were delivered into his possession. Mr. Smith seems to have created quite a [illegible] impression in his favor.

Messrs. Kyger & Reese have purchased a lot of ground of E. H. Barron, a short distance below town, and intend to commence at once to erect a large distillery thereon.

Some fifty or sixty Chinamen came up to Umatilla on the last boat, on their way to Oro Fino.

Snow has been falling almost continuously on the mountains for the past twelve days. No [illegible] fell during one day last week. It varies now from six to ten feet in depth, according to altitude, on the different roads across the mountains.

At Burnt river, on Friday last, the mercury fell at 31 below zero. In Grand Ronde valley same day, it stood at 32 below zero.

Mr. Michael Turney has established a new ferry on Snake river, on the road to Kootenai and Colville, five miles above [illegible] Ferry.

Ned James and Moses Druillard have started an express line to Kootenai [illegible] Walla Walla direct.

Monument to Col. Matheson.—It is proposed to raise a monument to the memory of Col. Roderick Matheson, of the First California regiment, or Thirty-second New York, who died of wounds received at the battle of Crampton's Gap, Maryland, and was buried at Healdsburg, Sonoma county, California. The people of Healdsburg have started the movement, and San Francisco is going to aid it.

Letter from Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, W. T., March [illegible], 1865.

Editors Oregonian:

Your correspondent took his departure from Portland on the morning of [illegible] the constant [illegible] a very pleasant and interesting trip [illegible] from Portland to Umatilla [illegible] and fatigue of the overland [illegible]

I have [illegible] noticed in the Idaho Independent [illegible] which they speak [illegible] of the [illegible] route to the Boise [illegible] Red Bluff, and take [illegible] comparisons [illegible] route and that by the Columbia river.

The first of a series of [illegible] for [illegible] this distance between San Francisco and Portland. They say: "The following figures, furnished us by [illegible] show [illegible] that no comparison [illegible] the overland route to Idaho [illegible] From San Francisco to Portland, one thousand two hundred miles; from Portland to Umatilla, two hundred and twenty [illegible] miles; [illegible] four hundred and twenty [illegible] The distance from San Francisco to [illegible] nearly six hundred miles; from [illegible] two hundred and ten miles [illegible] and ten miles. From this [illegible] will discover that from [illegible] distance [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] six hundred and [illegible] miles."

As to charges on freight, they again [illegible] as follows: From San Francisco to Portland, $12; from Portland to Umatilla [illegible], from Umatilla to Idaho City, $[illegible], total $62. The Independent actual charges are [illegible] from San Francisco to Portland [illegible] from Portland to [illegible] to Idaho City [illegible] in excess of $40. Here again we observe a total [illegible] to the amount of one hundred and fifty [illegible] for [illegible] freight from San Francisco to [illegible] and [illegible] Idaho City. By their overland route they advertise [illegible] freight [illegible] from San Francisco to Red Bluff, [illegible] charges on freight per pound [illegible] from San Francisco to Idaho City, you will perceive [illegible] two hundred and [illegible] shipping freight to Idaho City by [illegible] route, save one hundred and fifteen dollars [illegible] to correct calculation.

I am creditably informed that goods can be conveyed from Umatilla for [illegible] than above stated, and that [illegible] about [illegible] carry [illegible] from Walla [illegible] for one cent less per pound. I [illegible] cannot refrain [illegible] to the citizens of Portland [illegible] with the O. S. N. Co. [illegible] to call attention to the following statement made by the Independent:

"With these figures, which [illegible] the grand bubble of the [illegible] Portland was about to burst. The [illegible] of the O. S. N. Co. has become a [illegible] and imposition. Thousands have [illegible] the last [illegible] There is no instance [illegible] being complimented for their generosity and benevolence to poor passengers and [illegible] prospectors, who have [illegible] the resources of the country."

The O. S. N. Co. need no defense [illegible] correspondent to refute such falsehoods as the above. But I think I have shown by a fair comparison of the figures of both routes, that the article as published in the Independent was written with the purpose to misrepresent the facts in the case, and to mislead those desiring to reach Idaho, or to send freight to the Boise Basin.

In traveling over the O. S. N. Co.'s route a few days since, there came under my own observation, some instances, wherein this Company have manifested the most praiseworthy liberality. And I was informed by good authority that poor people and emigrants without funds, were often passed over this route free. I also heard that during a tour of the O. S. N. Co.'s excellent President parties applied to him for a free passage over his line, and also for pecuniary relief, that he readily granted it.

In my next I shall speak of the steamers and improvements belonging to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company along the Columbia river.

The weather up here is and has been extremely cold and stormy, more so than it is known to have been for many years past. Last year at this time the farmers had planted their crops, the flowers had appeared, and the fields were covered with spring's beautiful verdure. Now, there is nearly one foot of snow on the ground, this the 11th of March, and there is but little prospect of a change for the better.

The news from Idaho is anything but flattering to persons desirous of visiting that country. The Hon. C. DeWitt Smith, Acting Governor and Secretary of Idaho, reached this place a few days ago, en route for that Territory. Much depends upon his action, the policy he will adopt, and the way in which he will meet and decide the many embarrassing questions which he is about to face.

Your correspondent can speak of him as a man of undoubted ability—one well fitted by talent and experience for the position he now occupies. He left the day after his arrival for Lewiston, where some matters require his attention. There appears to be considerable anxiety exhibited by the politicians in this county as to who will be the nominee of the Convention that is to assemble at Olympia next month. F. P. Dugan and A. L. Brown, are prominent candidates for the nomination. Both appear to have many friends. Walla Walla is crowded with people, awaiting the return of fair weather to go into the Territory of Idaho.

Yours &c., C. A. M.

THE WORLD RENOWNED

SINGER SEWING MACHINES!

MANUFACTORY:

182, 184, 186, 188, 190 and 194 Mott street, New York.

Motto—"The Singer Sewing Machines are the only Machines that can sew all kinds of Cloth, and with all kinds of Thread."

Singer's Letter A Family Machine is the best and cheapest Machine in the world for Family Sewing. There is no doubt as to the value of our Machines for manufacturing purposes, but it is only of late that the public begin to learn that the essential elements of a Machine best adapted to the heaviest work, would also be the elements to be called for in a Family Machine.

We would ask for our Letter A Machine the attention of Vest Makers and Dress Makers, and all those who want Machines for Light Manufacturing Purposes. They embody the principles of the Manufacturing Machines, making, like them, the interlocked stitch, and are destined to be as celebrated for FAMILY SEWING and Light Manufacturing purposes, as our Manufacturing Machines are for manufacturing purposes in general.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES are valuable in proportion to the number of things they can do well. See what ours can do before making a purchase.

All persons requiring information about Sewing Machines, their sizes, prices, working capacities, and the best method of purchasing, can obtain it by sending for a copy of the SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET, which is entirely devoted to the subject. IT WILL BE SENT GRATIS.

The attention of the business community is again called to the

OLD GREENBACK CASE!

Having been compelled to accept of LEGAL TENDER NOTES AT PAR since December 17th, 1862, for the rent of my Handsome Brick Store, corner of Morrison and Front streets, I feel compelled to announce for the benefit of the public at large, that leased the building of me on the 17th day of February, 1862, for a term of years, at which time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were CASH. Since the date above stated I have received the depreciated currency regularly, under protest for the rent of the

CITY OF PARIS STORE,

Making less than two-fifths of the real amount. Said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract and pay in COIN, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantage of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see what it costs to have such tenants.

ERRATUM.—We to-day present the report of Assessor Frazar, for the second quarter ending February 28th. The amount of assays reported at the end of the first quarter, November 30th, was $1,276,578 82, being $[illegible] above the present figures; but as the season has not been one for mining properly, it is not astonishing that the last quarter is less than the first. SURF-BOATS.—The calamity recorded yesterday, brings to light the great necessity of always being prepared for such events. It is generally thought, that could there have been a few good surf-boats lying around in the vicinity of the spills, it would have encouraged the unfortunate ones who were left on board, to make a bold effort to drift into deep water, where they could have the prospect of being picked up. The only boat was that used by the soldiers at the cape; and it shows, that notwithstanding its age and unworthiness, it did signal service in rescuing those whose names were named yesterday. The men who manned the cars of the old boat on that occasion, deserve the highest praise for their noble efforts. We presume were the proper representations made to Government, suitable and sufficient surf-boats could be obtained for the Columbia river. The increasing shipping and trade that crosses and recrosses the bar, will cause greater risk in proportion, and it is but meet that all protection necessary be granted for our commerce.

NEW MILLS AND MACHINERY.—Mr. M. L. McLean, of this city, has lately returned from Albany, and will soon proceed to San Francisco for the purpose of obtaining the gearing and requisite machinery for a new flouring mill to be erected immediately at Albany, by Messrs. Thomas Monteith and Beach. The mill is to be one of the most superior of its class on the coast. We also noticed a short time since, the machinery for a sash, door and blind manufactory, at Walla Walla, being made in this city, for J. Dovall & Co., by D. Monastes. A new saw-mill has lately been erected at Sandy, and was put into operation on Saturday the 11th inst., for the first time. Thus is Oregon gradually coming up in the scale of supplying all demands upon her industrial pursuits.

STREETS AT THE DALLES.—A friend who has spent some time at the Dalles, comes back to Portland with his head down in reference to the matter of streets. He says they have an excellent main thoroughfare of cobble stone and sand, while fine side-walks lead a person to most parts of the town without any danger of his being stuck, crippled or drowned. It is a stigma that we cannot say the same of Portland. In all of our street improvements there is not 200 feet of continuous side-walk to be found, except on Washington street, and no provision whatever is made for teams, truck or dray. We think the Council would do well to take a peep at the Dalles before they go too far in the "Oregon fir trade."

A LARGE SALE.—The rush on Saturday was to A. B. Richardson's Auction Sale. Drays filled the streets, people filled the store, and from the "crying," one would suppose the "annual moving day" of a large and overly crowded city had come about. He sold on Saturday furniture enough to stock a large hotel—boots and shoes to supply a community—such as we have in some of the prominent towns of Oregon for a year; and any quantity of other goods "too numerous to mention." Really, Mr. Richardson is doing an extensive business in his Auction Sales, and being of that stamp of men likely to entertain a crowded audience, we think that nobody left until the last thing was sold on Saturday.

DRAMATIC.—Last evening the great sensation play of "Enoch," was again performed to a good audience, which seems to be having a good run. The pleasing comedietta entitled "Jubilee House, or Parents and Guardians, School-Boys and Teachers," was also performed with good success, and elicited no little applause. To-night will be performed Schiller's tragic drama, of the "Robbers of Bohemia, or a Father's Curse." This is a thrilling piece, in which Waldron sustains the character of "Charles De Moor" well. He will be well supported by all of the company, and there is no reason to doubt but that the performance will be a perfect success.

RECORDER'S COURT.—McCoy disposed of the following cases vs. the City of Portland yesterday: Frank Doake was arraigned on a charge of violent and disorderly conduct, and in default of fine and costs was sent to jail for two days, which very likely will make him a better man, as it is an excellent place for deep study. Isaac Ball paid fine and costs amounting in the aggregate to $19, for the same offence. James Coseiry (another of the same type and offence) was fined, with costs, $25 25, which he paid. There were no other cases.

BISHOP OF COLUMBIA.—The Victoria papers notice the arrival of Rev. Dr. Hills, the Lord Bishop of Columbia. Some two weeks since, the congregation of St. Stephen's Chapel in this city, found themselves, owing to the illness of Bishop Scott, without the services of a minister. An English clergyman who was accidentally present, offered his services and officiated for the occasion, he being no less a personage than the Bishop of Columbia, who was then on his way to his diocese.

STEAMBOAT MATTERS.—Capt. J. C. Ainsworth has sold the John H. Couch, and other steamers on the Astoria and Cowlitz river trade, to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company. The Company will continue the lines as they were running under the direction of Capt. Ainsworth. We also hear it rumored that the same Company have subsidized the new steamer Cascade, built by Donahue, Kohl & Ankeny. They have now the entire control of all crafts on the Columbia river from Astoria to the head of navigation.

RUNAWAY.—Rines, the wood-dealer, must feed his teams well. They enjoy a runaway as often as it is possible for them to escape his vigilance—notwithstanding the mud. Yesterday a pair of his large grays came down Front street at a furious rate, having taken leave of their owner, on the way from the stable to the wagon. The horses were caught at the corner of Yamhill and Front street, before they had done any damage.

ONE MORE ON THE SEA.—Capt. Jo. Williams, late Master of the clipper bark Samuel Merritt—one of the Oregon packets has recently purchased the bark A. A. Eldridge, to run between Honolulu and Portland. Our informant says: Capt. Williams will "assume command in person." The Eldridge has been a long time employed in the trade between San Francisco and the Islands, and is a first-class vessel.

ONE OF OREGON'S DAUGHTERS.—There is a little girl, eight years of age, living near Oregon City, that has recited, or committed to memory, two hundred verses of Scripture the last season, besides knitting fourteen pair of socks, and attending to her various play hours duties, incident to youth. Really, she is smart as she is fair, and her example is worthy of imitation by many very much older.

FROM JACKSON COUNTY.—W. A. Owen, Esq., Sheriff of Jackson County, arrived in this city Saturday evening with one Wm. Wilkinson, said to be favored with several aliases, convicted of larceny at the late term of court in that county, and sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. Mr. Owen describes the roads through the valleys as exceeding imagination, and reports that the Stage Company deems them passable.

SAILS.—The steamship Oregon will sail this evening at 4 o'clock for San Francisco, touching at Victoria.

THE PORTLAND [illegible].—[illegible] of Mr. Edwards [illegible] handed the assay of rock by Tracy & Co. from the "Poorman lode" of Idaho, which, like the most of lodes in that section, proves to be very rich. The value of silver per ton is $[illegible], gold per ton, $[illegible]. Mr. E. also showed us a very superior specimen of the gold.

FOR THE UPPER WILLAMETTE.—The steamer Enterprise, Capt. Pease, will leave this month for Eugene City and intermediate ports, [illegible] at Oregon City on Tuesday evening, March [illegible] destined for the Enterprise, must be shipped on or before Tuesday evening of that date.

THE TURBINE WHEELS.—Messrs. Shrier & Co., of Oregon City, have one of Leffel's Turbine Wheels in their mill, and it appears to be giving the greatest satisfaction. Two set of stone are run at a high rate by it, and the wheel is but [illegible] inches in diameter.

Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society.—A Special Meeting will be held at [illegible] Hall, corner of Oak and Third streets, Tuesday Evening [illegible] March 20, 1865.
[illegible] SHARKEY, Pres't.

Firemen Notice.—Board of Delegates met on Saturday evening, March 18th, in Council Chamber, and adjourned until Tuesday evening [illegible] o'clock, at which time all the members of the Board are requested to be in attendance.

To the Uninformed.—The more prominent symptoms that indicate Consumption are cough and expectoration, loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, diarrhea, hemoptysis or bleeding of the lungs, night sweats, hectic fever, debility, and finally despondency and anxiety. Now, the plain indications are, to combat all these symptoms. How shall it be done? Experience has demonstrated that NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP is the only remedy that can safely be relied upon for that purpose.

Although the fame of this renowned invigorant rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and intermittent disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant results. Sold by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

Cure Your Cold, Save Your Lungs.
NEWELL'S
PULMONARY SYRUP
HAS CURED THOUSANDS!
And it will Cure You!
"A Cough is generally the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is Always reason to fear the consequences, as this shows a weak state of the lungs, and is often the forerunner of Consumption."—Buchanan's Domestic Medicine.
STOP THAT COUGHING!
Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supersede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of trashy compounds foisted on the public as a certain cure; but
Pulmonary Syrup!

THE PEACE CONFERENCE.—The following particulars of the peace conference between President Lincoln and Secretary Seward, and Messrs. Stephens, Hunter and Campbell on the part of the Confederacy, is taken from a late copy of the N. Y. Herald:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7, 1865.—Political circles here are still in a state of agitation in reference to the late peace negotiations. One set declares that peace is at hand, and that the late effort in Hampton Roads was not a fiasco, but a success, as far as in the nature of events it could be. The other side insists that Seward's and Mr. Lincoln's efforts at making peace are a grand and total failure; that the result of these interviews with the rebel embassadors has driven away the bright clouds of peace; that all hopes, all prospects of such a blessing have been dispelled, and that it is now war to the end. Neither side seems willing to yield its conviction of this point to the other, or manifest the least doubt of the correctness of its position. It is true that the Administration continues to give out that the late consultations amounted to nothing and were a failure. But the public will remember that it was officially stated on the elder Blair's first return from Richmond that he went solely on private business, and did not have an interview with any person in Richmond on the question of peace. In the face of these official assertions Mr. Blair, in less than four days, started again for the rebel capital. On his returning here the second time it was persistently stated at the State Department that his mission had been a failure, the Southern leaders insisting upon, as their ultimatum, independence. This was kept up until the rebel Commissioners were announced, asking admission into our lines. Ever since that time it has been given out from the same source that Blair's mission was a success. The Administration need not, therefore, wonder if the public do not place any great faith in the statement that the Hampton Roads consultation was a fiasco.

APPEARANCE OF THE REBEL COMMISSIONERS.

The rebel Vice President and his associates were rather poorly clad. Although not got up in the regular "shabby-genteel" style of dress, the ordinary texture of their clothing bespoke the fact that textile fabrics of the best kinds were somewhat scarce in the Confederacy. They wore thick-soled English shoes, no doubt got in through blockade-runners. Their appearance was not that of men in sound and robust health. They looked more like men who had not had a regular succession of good dinners for some time past, however much they may have been accustomed to them in days gone by; for it is a fact that violent gastronomic changes have as much effect upon the human system as the changes of the atmosphere upon a barometer.

When they first made their appearance in front of our lines they opened negotiations in a spirited way. The first thing they wanted to know was whether there was any good whisky on our side. The answer was prompt: "Of course there was, and any quantity of it." The ambassadors thereupon expressed a desire to have some, and were immensely gratified. It was evidently a long time since they had tasted so prime an article, for in a brief space they had consumed what was sent them and were under the necessity of requesting a further supply. The aromatic taste of such fine liquor which they had rarely heard of since the rebellion, no doubt put them in a very good humor, and all feelings of hostility to the Yankees were for the moment "in the deep bosom of the ocean buried," and they at once proposed an interview.

THE CORDIALITY OF THE INTERVIEW.

The interview between the President and Mr. Seward on one side, and Messrs. Stephens, Campbell and Hunter on the other, was, according to all accounts, exceedingly pleasant to all concerned. Nothing occurred to mar the harmony or good feeling during the entire interview. What the South desired was stated freely, without any bluster or superciliousness. The President informed them that the people of the North would not entertain for a moment the idea of a settlement short of restoration of the Union and full obedience to the laws by the people of the Southern States; that he was simply the agent of the people of the United States, and could not, if he desired, consent to any other basis of settlement. The whole affair was a sort of reconnoissance by the consulting parties on both sides.

ALL THE REBELS WANTED WAS AN ARMISTICE.

There is no truth whatever in the statement extensively circulated that the rebel Commissioners demanded recognition and refused to enter into negotiations, except on that basis. The whole question of peace and the views of the sections was talked over in a general way. Stephens and his associates did not, in all of this general conversation, intimate whether they would or would not accept anything else but recognition and independence. What they did say was, that they did not desire to fix any ultimatum as a starting point in their negotiations. The ultimatum was a question which, in their opinion, should be arrived at through negotiation as the terms of settlement, and not fixed as the starting point. They asked that Commissioners, vested with full powers, to treat on peace should be appointed by both sides, and that there should be an armistice while negotiations were pending. This was the sum and substance of their demand, which they claimed was necessary to work their people up to the point of reunion or any other demand of the Federal Government. This is, to be sure, an adroit way of getting at the question of peace, and no doubt means more than appears on the surface.

MR. LINCOLN'S THREE POINTS.

The President and Mr. Seward refused to grant an armistice for a single day. Mr. Lincoln informed them that there were three points which he would not yield:

1. That no armistice would be granted for a single day.

2. That a united country was the only basis upon which peace could be obtained. Restoration of the Union and full obedience to the laws by the people of the Southern States were the sine qua non.

3. That the action of Congress in regard to slavery should be recognized as the law of the land—meaning in this the constitutional amendment.

Mr. Lincoln insisted that reunion should be the basis of settlement, and that a united country should be the groundwork of all negotiations. The rebel gentlemen were unwilling to consent to the appointment of Commissioners, unless an armistice were granted while negotiations were pending; at least they held that they had not the power to bind the South to such action without an armistice. Mr. Lincoln positively refused the armistice, and the other point in reference to reunion and a united country, was not talked over. It was not said whether they would consent to this or not. They had not the power to treat for peace. If an armistice were refused it would render all formal talk on other points useless. The armistice was the sticking point, and on that they went back to Richmond to report progress and ask for instructions. There was considerable informal conversation, during which almost everything connected with the rebellion was talked over, as well as the issues and changes which have been brought about by virtue of the war. The interview ended with perfect good humor. The parting greeting was as cordial and happy as that of the best of friends could be. The rebel Commissioners returned to Richmond; the President and Mr. Seward to Washington.

ONE OF OLD ABE'S STORIES.

After the formal interview was over there was a lengthy general conversation held. It seems that it was during this informal talk that the rebel embassadors first heard of the passage of the constitutional amendment by the lower house of Congress. One of the number remarked that this might complicate affairs a little with the South. The heavy planters insisted upon maintaining that institution and defending it, and asked Mr. Lincoln if he thought he could get around that fact. Old Abe was ready for them with one of his stories, and said:

There is an old farmer out in Illinois who had made his arrangements to raise a large herd of hogs; he informed his neighbors that he had found a way to raise cheap pork. This excited the curiosity of his neighbors, and they asked him how he was going to do it. The old farmer replied that he should plant a large field of potatoes, and when they had got their growth he would turn the hogs in and let them dig and eat, thus saving the expense of digging the potatoes and feeding them. "But," said his neighbors, "the frost will come before they are fattened, and in all probability the ground will be frozen a foot deep. How do you propose to get around that?" "Oh," replied the farmer, "they will have to root somewhere anyway, and may as well root away there, even if it is hard work."

WHAT THE REBELS THINK OF GEN. GRANT.

On their return up the river, and on passing through our lines to their own, they were much attracted by the appearance and manners of Gen. Grant, and remarked to some of our officers that they had never expected to find so modest and unassuming a man as Gen. Grant. Their idea of his character and appearance was of course drawn from the tenacity and purpose with which he fights. They declared that for a man holding so high and important a position it was astonishing to them to find him so modest. They left with the most favorable impression of our General-in-Chief. But it must be stated that the expressions which fell from them on leaving showed that they regarded this semi-official mission as a failure. Nevertheless they expressed a hope that good would ultimately come out of it, seeing that the authorities [illegible] Northern Government were [illegible]

[illegible]

The following [illegible] the progress of the [illegible]

On the morning of the 3d, the three gentlemen, Messrs. Stephens, Hunter and Campbell, came aboard of our steamer, and had an interview with the Secretary of State and myself of several hours duration. No question of preliminaries to the meeting was then and there made or mentioned. No other person was present; no papers were exchanged or produced; and it was, in advance, agreed that the conversation was to be informal and verbal merely. On our part the whole substance of the instructions to the Secretary of State, hereinbefore recited, was stated and insisted upon, and nothing was said inconsistent therewith; while by the other party it was not said that in any event or on any condition they ever would consent to reunion; and yet they equally omitted to declare that they never would so consent. They seemed to desire a postponement of that question, and the adoption of some other course first which, as some of them seemed to argue, might or might not lead to reunion, but which course we thought would amount to an indefinite postponement. The conference ended without result.

The foregoing, containing as is believed, all the information sought, is respectfully submitted.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie [illegible] to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and ours with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and [illegible] the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in the fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible materials in Messrs. McK & H.'s cellar—such as lard, [illegible] etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of ours, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, proving, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
